TAKING NO CHANCES.

The Russian plans contemplate taking no chances on the score of inferior numbers. By sheer weight of men and guns, if nothing else, when the proper time arrives, Russia counts on over-whelming the Japanese and rolling them back through Korea.

It is realized that the vastness of the theater of war will make the protection of the railroad the sole means for the transportation of troops and supplies from Europe, one of the most difficult phases of the Russian military prob-iem. With the Japanese in command of the sea there is always the possibilty of their landing small bodies of men n unexpected places to make incurions into the interior to cut the railroad and telegraph lines and blow up bridges, but adequate measures are believed to have been taken to guard against such misfortune. It is a mistake to suppose that the Russians underestimate the prowess of their adversaries. On the contrary, they admit the fine marksmanship of the Japanese and their marvelous ability in determining ranges, yet the Russians do not believe that the Japanese can uccessfully face the legions of the

On the sea the maritime life of the Japanese gives them a natural advan-tage, but on land, where belong all the traditions of the Russian army, the men of the Empire have perfect faith born of their numerous experiences with pagan tribes and the fatalism inherent in the Russian character. They believe that Asiatics cannot meet Europeans in battle array; that a yellow race cannot triumph over a white, or heathens over Christians. Gen. Kuropatkin, who will leave for the front March 12th, is expected to be on the ground before the real campaign opens. He has purchased milk-white norses from an officer of the cavalry school to ride in the far East, thus fol-lowing the example of the famous Gen-eral. Skobeloff, with whom he fought at the slege of Geoktepe

Chairman Burrows at this point ques-lioned the witness. He asked: You say you would not abandon your sives or your children. Why do you consider it necessary to have issue, by your plural wives, in order to clothe and care for your children that had been born before unlawful cohabitation became a crime? "Because my wives are like all other women. It is necessary to maintain peace, harmony and good will between myself and my good wives. That is the kernel in the nut. That is why I have chosen not to obey the laws of my State prohibiting polygamous cohabitation. "The church gave me my wives and I do not think the church could be con-sistent in taking them away," said Mr. Smith in answer to a question as to why he did not agree to the Woodruif manifesto.

"The Lord giveth, and the Lord taeth," quoth Senator Balley from the Scriptures. Continuing, the Senator said it appeared that polygamous co-habitation is forbidden by both the law of the land and the law of the church as laid down in the Woodruff manifesto, and addressing the witness he asked: and addressing the witness he asked: Then as head of the church you are riolating the laws of the land and the ordinances of your church as well?

"Not the ordinances," said Mr. Smith.
"Well, the law, then."
"No, the rule," said the witness. "The rule, after all, is the law for onduct," said Mr. Bailey. "I was only rying to emphasize what the revelaions are. I don't know as much about nice distinctions in religion as I I do about the law, but it appears

The reply was: law. I would not desert my wives. I would not abandon my children. I will run my risks before the law."

President Smith's voice showed his emotion. He showed more feeling than he had at any previous time exhibited as he leaned forward and said.

Replying to a question from Senator.

Replying to a question from Senator Overman, Mr. Smith said that the pamphlet containing the manifesto did not state that it was a revelation from God, but that the statement was made that it was published by authority of the church, which was sufficient. It then appeared that the manifesto had not been put in as evidence and Mr. Tayler then introduced it with other documents.

A few minutes before the time for adjournment arrived a photographer appeared and was about to focus his camera upon the committee and its distinguished witness, but Senator Dillingham made a strenuous objection Chairman Burrows stated that no photograph of the committee or of the tograph of the committee or of the room would be taken without the con-sent of the committee.
